

THE PATH TO ZERO INEQUALITY

Why we want to build caring companies

1

Violence

The healthy company establishes ZERO tolerance for violence of any kind among its workers.

2

Organisational policy

The company must establish strategies to be socially responsible that are aligned with the needs of its workers. These may include: flexible working hours for family reconciliation or implementing an equality plan.

3

Justice

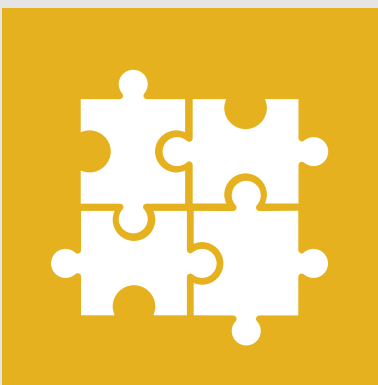

The healthy company promotes equitable and fair workplaces, without discrimination and without practices that harm people, such as abuse of power.

4

Equality

Gender equality must cease to be a challenge and become a necessity. Men and women must enjoy equal opportunities and benefits.

5

Inclusion

A healthy company promotes multiculturalism in its workforce. It includes groups at risk of social exclusion and shows its commitment to achieving responsive environments.

6

Socially responsible

The healthy company promotes workplaces where every worker can feel at ease. Taking care of the company's most valuable asset (the worker) should be a priority.
